

Code of Conduct

The Network of Agricultural, Biological, and Environmental Statistics (NABES) (referred to as the network) Code of Conduct sets out the standards of behaviour expected of members in their interaction with the network and its members. The Code of Conduct was put in place on 22 July 2026.

Principles of the Code

When representing the network externally, or interacting with members as part of network activities, members should:

- Act with honesty and integrity and in good faith
- Treat all individuals with dignity and respect and without discrimination.
- Respect confidentiality and raise and manage any conflicts of interest.
- Present statistical methods and results accurately, clearly and without misrepresentation.
- Raise concerns where wrongdoing or unethical behaviour is observed.

If you need to raise a concern, please speak in confidence to a member of the Executive (nabescontact@gmail.com), Megan Towers (megan.towers@nature.scot), or Hayley Carr (Hayley.Carr@babraham.ac.uk).
